HEALTH IS WEALTH

Take care of your Health

In this hi-tech lifestyle many of us have no time to take good care of our health.

Are we forgetting the very old saying "Health is Wealth"?

Are you aware that we should eat at least 4 to 5 servings of fresh fruits and vegetables everyday?

Research shows that fruits and vegetables are critical to promoting good health. To get the amount that's recommended, most people need "to increase the amount of fruits and vegetables they currently eat every day."

PROJECTS

Over the years, the group has completed 300 projects using novel construction techniques, sizes & utilities ranging from Transmission Towers & Bridges, Complexes and now Green Homes as well.

Green Homes get away from the routine in terms of design & choice of material. Much of the concern boils down to the use of energy. For we believe that much of the energy is embodied in the building materials themselves, their transportation & assembly.

All Green Home projects feature:

- Solar Heating & Solar Power Provision.
- LED Lighting.
- Garbage Disposal – Green Home Recycling.
- STP- Waste Water Management.
- Central Air Cooling.
- Common Laundromats.
- Water Saving Techniques.

The projects presently underway include:

ABOUT THE PROJECT

About Young Lives Project Aims Why Child Poverty

Young Lives Project Aims

Goal:

To contribute to a reduction in childhood poverty.

Purpose:

To devise and employ a methodology that uses evidence from longitudinal research to influence the development and implementation of pro-poor policies with a view to reducing childhood poverty in the study countries and, via dissemination of lessons learnt, globally.

In realising its purpose, the first key challenge for YL is:

Can we identify and share what policy measures should be adopted to reduce childhood poverty and avoid transmitting poverty, within the timeframe of childhood, into early adulthood and beyond?

In order to meet this challenge YL research aims to:

- a) Understand the causes, nature and consequences of childhood poverty. This is achieved by tackling two central research questions:
 - What are the factors (sub-national, community and household / family) that act on children's lives, to either increase or reduce poverty and its effects?
 - What effects do multidimensional aspects of poverty have on children's functioning, capacities and well being during the course of childhood?

- b) Analyse existing policies and economic and socio-political trends for their childhood poverty effects. This is achieved by addressing a third critical research question:
 - To what extent are current international, national and sub-national policies and trends effective in reducing childhood poverty in the study countries?
 - The second crucial challenge for YL in realising its purpose relates to its ability to devise a policy-influencing methodology that can be implemented within study countries and internationally that will be effective in convincing key stakeholders to take appropriate action to reduce childhood poverty.
